DUNCAN ENDS SERIES OF BRUTAL CRIMES IN JAIL CELL BY SUICIDE

WIFE KILLER SAID TO HAVE KILLED MAN IN PADUCAH, KY.

Ed Duncan Attempted To Rape Daughter While Murdered Wife's Body Lay On Lonely River Bottom Road

A twisted mind that generated base desires and emotions inspired a father to rape his 12-year old daughter, murder his wife and commit self destruction.

The limp and almost lifeless body of Ed Duncan, 42 years old, 1015 Maple St., was discovered hanging from a cell bar in the city jail at the end of his own belt by police officers Friday night. He had fastened his heavy leather belt tightly about his neck, climbed to the upper berth fastened the other end to a cell bar, and rolled off.

Efforts of a resuscitator who labored were in vain. With his own hands, Duncan had been successful in writing a climax to a series of his atrocious crimes.

The body of Duncan's wife was found about noon Thursday by two white fishermen in a sandy clearing along the White river bank near Raymond street and back of the Illinois Central tracks. Police were called and the body was ordered removed to City morgue. There were no marks of identification.

There was much evidence that a violent struggle had taken place before the murder. There were no stockings for the body, the shoes were found 100 feet from where the body lay. The right hand was drawn back as if to strike, the left was across the deep wound in the stomach and one heel was embedded deeply in the sand. The woman had been stabbed once in the chest and twice in the back. One of her eyes was blackened and several teeth knocked out.

Detectives Schulz, Becker, Pope and Mason were assigned to the case Thursday evening. No reports of a woman being missing were on record at headquarters.

Followed "Hunch"
The detectives were directed to the scene of murder for clues. On the day before they had questioned two men held on vagrancy and during course of questioning they had heard one man say, "My sister and her husband, Ed Duncan, quarrel all the time and I look for something to happen some time. We live with them now."

When given meager details in the case the officers associated the case with the questioning the day before decided to go see Ed Duncan.

Where's your wife Ed? the detectives asked upon reaching the Duncan residence. "She's missing and I've been looking for her," he answered. "We think we've found her, come along," Duncan was told. He was taken to the City morgue where he identified the body of his wife.

Held On Suspicion
Duncan had not notified police that his wife was missing. That with the fact they continuously quarreled was grounds for suspicion.

Duncan was questioned several hours and allowed to go to bed. Friday morning he told detectives in detail how he had stabbed his wife Tuesday about 3:00 p. m., and left her to die. When shown a portion of the knife blade removed by the coroner from his wife's body he nodded his head that it was a part of the knife he had used. A portion of the confession is printed elsewhere in this issue.

In his confession he gave domestic difficulties as reasons for the murder.

Police placed little credence in this statement however, since they had witnesses that Duncan had repeatedly attempted to criminally assault his own 12 years old daughter.

Confessed Killer

MRS. EVELYN LEWIS

Who buried the saw blade of a 12-inch bread knife up to the handle in the back of Andrew Sallee's paramour last Friday night.

Sallee was married and father of four children. Mrs. Lewis has one daughter.

Story elsewhere in this issue.

CONFESSION OF ED DUNCAN

"My name is Ed Duncan. I am 42 years of age and I have been living with my wife and daughter at 1015 Maple street. My wife's name is Ethel; my daughter's name is Lucille, and she is 12 years of age. I have another child, a boy, Harry, now at the Boys' school in Plainfield.

We were married in 1915. My wife had a brother, Harry Perkins, who, with another man, had been staying at my house.

"I had many quarrels with my wife about these two men because they were bringing stolen stuff to my house. I told her to make them leave but she told me Harry was her brother and if I wanted him to leave I would have to tell him myself. I told them to leave once and they did. They came back though.

"These men were arrested on August 31 on some kind of a charge, stealing I suppose. They got out (Continued On Page Eight) ter, Lucille. In the last attempt he was successful, according to police and the girl had threatened to tell her mother. It is thought he wanted his wife out of the way.

On the morning of the day he was arrested for the murder, Duncan had called his daughter and told her he was going to look for her mother. They left and were over taken when they were near the Illinois Central tracks by Harry Perkins, the wife's brother, who was living with them. Perkins asked Duncan where he was taking the girl and he said "How in the H— do I know." They fought and returned home. Perkins left, returning a short time later to find the doors and windows all locked.

Hearing the scuffling inside he called Duncan asking him what he was doing. Duncan said "Nothing." It was discovered later he was again attempting to rape his daughter.

Assumed Name
Duncan's real name is reported by relatives to be Olive Smith. It is said he killed a man in Paducah, Ky., and fled here under an assumed name.

Surviving Mrs. Duncan are the daughter, a son, Harry in Boy's school at Plainfield; Miss Helen Esters, Mrs. Helen Parker, Miss Fannie Perkins, this city and Mrs. Bertha Pettiford, Greenwood, sisters; Harry and William Perkins, brothers.

Duncan leaves besides the children, a brother J. W. Smith, and sister, Mrs. Ethel Turner, Paducah, Ky.

CHARGED WITH OPEN POLICY OF DISCRIMINATION OF EMPLOYEES

MRS. SARAH MANUEL, FEDERATED CLUB PRESIDENT IN STATEMENT INDIANAPOLIS RECORDER URGES GROUP TO "BUY ONLY WHERE YOU CAN WORK."

By Staff Correspondent

Declaring that "whenever at whatever possible our people should only patronize such stores, shops and other business concerns that are not against employing colored help," Mrs. Sarah Manuel, 2707 Highland Place, president of the Mary B. Talbert Federated club in a statement Thursday to The Indianapolis Recorder, was outspoken in her denunciation of what she referred to as the policy of certain community and chain stores in denying employment to Negroes because of their race.

"All my life," said Mrs. Manuel, "I have preached to members of our group the gospel of patronizing only those business places that do not practice discrimination in the selection and promotion of their employees."

"The very existence of the community and chain stores doing business in colored districts depends upon the patronage they receive from our people. These business concerns owe their very life to the Negro's support. This being the case," said Mrs. Manuel, "our people have every right to expect a certain amount of civic co-operation and manifestation of a spirit of economic helpfulness from the managements of these concerns."

Grab All, Give Nothing
There are hundreds of competent school girls and boys who are being denied employment at these stores. And they are entitled to the places given to outsiders.

I am convinced this boy cutting of our people is based solely upon prejudice and a bold spirit of ingratitude on the part of the managements of these concerns.

"We are rightly indignant over the idea of these community stores grabbing all the patronage they can from colored people and refusing to give them work. It is a system of grabbing all and giving nothing."

This bold practice of shutting out colored people from employment by chain stores and other businesses and at the same time enjoying their patronage must stop. And we can stop it," said the Federated club executive.

Asked as to how would she bring about a discontinuance of the tendency of the group to patronize businesses whose managements will not employ colored help, Mrs. Manuel said, "our people should withdraw their trade from each chain store and other community business places. They should buy only where they can work."

Policy Unfair
In Haughville, West Indianapolis, the east end, north side and south side and down town districts the long complained of chain store habit giving to outsiders employment that rightly belongs to residents of the neighborhoods condensation.

Residents of the communities mentioned say that since the patronage these community stores receive from colored people enables them to continue in business it is no more than right that whatever employment is at their disposal, should be distributed among their colored patrons.

Gross Discrimination
That many chain stores and other industries doing business principally in colored neighborhoods are stubbornly maintaining a policy gross discrimination against colored employees, is the consensus of opinion in all the so-called Indiana-

CHARLES LEWIS WANTED ON RAPE CHARGE IS CAPTURED

Alleged Rapist, Arrested In Aurora, Ill., Returned By Detective Sneed.

Charles Lewis, 33 years old, 1015 Muskingum street was arrested in Aurora, Ill., August 30 and returned to this city in custody of Detective Sneed on charges of rape.

On July 19, Lewis is alleged to have criminally attacked Marie Lou Jones, 12 year-old deformed daughter of Mrs. Mattie Hurt, 914 Roanoke street after which he left the city. Local police officials traced the fugitive to Aurora where he was arrested.

The mother claims when she returned about 12:00 a. m., from buying a sandwich she heard her daughter screaming hysterically. Upon entering the house she told police she saw Lewis leaving the bedroom leaving her daughter writhing in agony from the assault.

Mrs. Cassel Saunders, called police over protests of Lewis and as officers DeBarr and Johnson neared the home the alleged rapist ran out the back way and made good his escape.

Lewis is reported on other occasions to have attempted criminal assault upon the girl.

poils colored communities.

In the homes on the street corners in social club circles and other organizations this matter of certain chain stores refusing colored people work while grabbing all the trade they can get from them, is the subject of much serious conversation.

In other words our people are at last waking up to the necessity of protecting themselves against the outrage.

Out of the prevailing protest against the injustice has sprung the newly coined slogan, "BUY ONLY WHERE YOU CAN WORK." This bit of advice is being taken to a greater and greater extent by our people. And that is a good thing.

EVELYN LEWIS PLUNGES TWELVE INCH KNIFE INTO LOVER'S BACK

Father Of Four Children Killed When He Fails To Keep Date With Former Sweetheart

(BULLETIN)

Mrs. Evelyn Lewis, confessed murderer of Andrew Sallee, held in the woman's prison since Friday night of last week, has refused all food, according to the matron. Mrs. Lewis had no statement to make other than "See my attorney."

While resuscitation experts were vainly working over the body of Ed Duncan, confessed wife slayer, who had hanged himself in his cell in City prison, Mrs. Evelyn Lewis, 22 years old, 536 North California street, was describing to detectives in the "back room" below, how she fatally stabbed her paramour, Andrew Sallee, 28, 407 Pratt street, married, father of four children.

Signs Confession
In her signed confession, Mrs. Lewis told how she waited until 9:15 Friday night on her lover to keep a date she had with him.

"When he failed to make his appearance, I took that knife (pointing to the 12-inch saw-blade bread knife that lay before her on the table) threw my coat around my shoulders and went to the place I knew he would be. I was told he was upstairs in the apartment of Mrs. Armita McGuire, 633 1/2 North West street. When I inquired from Mrs. McGuire if Andrew was there she said 'yes,' and turned on the light. Andrew was sitting about four feet from Beatrice Coffey, who I had forbidden him to see again. I walked over to where he was seated and plunged the knife in his back, left the room, went home and waited on the front porch for the police," Mrs. Lewis detailed in her confession to police.

Listening To Radio
Mrs. McGuire said Sallee had just entered the room and was listening to "Amos 'n Andy." He had just said "Amos is losing his mind," when the Lewis woman knocked.

Didn't See Stabbing
Asked what she saw, Mrs. McGuire stated she only remembered the Lewis woman walking past her over to Sallee, then out again and down stairs. No words were exchanged by either of them.

"She didn't seem at all angry," said Mrs. McGuire, "when she inquired for Sallee. When I first realized he was hurt, Beatrice said 'Oh he's been stabbed.' I ran to him when I saw him writhing in pain and pulled the knife out of his back which was in him to the handle. All 'Andy Gump' (meaning Sallee) said was 'do you think she hit my lung?' and asked someone to call a doctor. Sallee followed me down the stairs, across the front porch to the undertaking establishment of Herbert Willis, next door, where I called the doctor."

Falls From Chair
Sallee followed Mrs. McGuire all the way unassisted and sat down in a chair, blood gushing from his body. He fell over with the chair and before medical aid reached him and was near death when the ambulance arrived to remove him to the hospital.

Officers had brought Mrs. Lewis to where Sallee was lying and when asked why she had stabbed him stated because he was no good.

The Lewis woman accused Sallee of courting Beatrice Coffey who lives with the McGuire woman. They are said to have had numerous heated quarrels over the "third

TELLS OF THRIVING COLORED VILLAGE IN STATE OF ILLINOIS

TOWN OF ROBBINS, WITH ITS POPULATION OF MORE THAN 3,500 SOULS WITHIN ONE HOUR'S RIDE OF CHICAGO—"PROVES OUR PEOPLE ARE CAPABLE OF SELF GOVERNMENT" WRITER SAYS.

By EDNA CASTLEBURY PREDUE

The result of the election, was hailed with much joy, and the burning of red lights reflecting on the snow made a spectacular scene as the jubilant crowd, with tooting horns made the rounds of the infant village.

A petition was filed with the County court asking for a special election of village officials and Jan. 15th 1918 was the day set.

The petition was granted a convention called and a full ticket was nominated: Thom J. Keller, Pres. Wm. Harvey Clerk; Geo. J. Moore Police Magistrate and six Trustees.

No Opposition

There was no opposition and this ticket was unanimously elected.

Ceaser and his cabinet were not arrayed and surrounded with more pomp and splendor than were these newly elected officers at their installation at the Baptist church.

Quarters for housing these city or village officials were immediately secured and the first meeting was attended by every member and all were alert and business started off with a boom.

As time went on, the village grew to such proportions that a political parties were formed and in time different officers were elected.

Up-To-Date Club House

Robbins boasts of three groceries thirteen churches an up-to-date club house and lake for fishing and boating.

A club house built and owned by the Womens Improvement club and used as a social center and circulating library.

The club has been quite a factor in the development of the village and lies very near the heart of the writer as it was organized in her home and she acted as its first president until moving.

We were pleased to be present at the dedication of the new hall June 29, 31 which is now located in the old school house.

This hall houses the police and fire department and jail.

The fire department has a chemical truck costing $8,000 and a village is planning putting in other necessary apparatuses.

The Police department has a chief Desk Sergeant, Squad car and two motor policemen.

The records show that during the years only about six arrests for robbery were made.

There are no lewd places and most arrests are for speeding.

Birth rate is on the increase and death rate low.

This village proves beyond a doubt that our people are capable of self-government.

Negroes Are Put To Work In Chicago

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 11. (ANP)—Several hundred men were put to work in the South Park system Monday morning as part of an arrangement between the park officials and representatives of Governor Louis Emerson's relief committee. All of the men are colored.

The governor's committee has made available a fund of $50,000 from which the men will be paid.

My Dear Public:

Received no anonymous letters this week. No hot tips or inside dope on the private life of this person or that. That's the idea, you get me, let's be nice about this thing and I promise you everybody will be happy.

Did you have a good time Labor day? If the inability to walk straight, or talk coherently or to find the keyhole at 3 a. m. is any judge Billy Shaw had a damfine time.

Papa George Oates, the valentine shooemaker on Indiana avenue, has taken a new chick under his wing. He has just presented his newly found darling with a fifty dollar diamond ring while the charming little lassie returns thanks by getting his suit out of pawn.

Eugene Williams certainly has good taste. Congratulations, old man, she's a peach.

Sponsoring a party and being hostess to a dance couldn't be done better than Louise Terry did at the Walker Coffee Pot. What makes a person so charming, any way. Do you think Sylvester Moore would look well in a derby?

Radford Morris would like to meet Doris Norrell. Will some one fix things up.

She's slender, graceful, serenely poised, has ruby lips, beautiful dark eyes. Yes, that's her, Miss Geraldine Collins.

Dorothy Campbell's in line for promotion. She deserves it. How good is Emma Good. She had her teeth (?) birthday last week.

George (hot papa) Belote says he can beat Nelson McElroy doing anything. Wonder what he means.

Yo-he is not entirely a game for kids. Race Jackson plays it nicely. When Clarence Scott drives some one else's car, he should be thought of enough to notice the feed box running out of gas in the middle of Washington street might be dangerous, as well as embarrassing.

The south side is in a mild uproar. Their foremost lady lover, Robert Miller, is reported married. Well Bob, may all your troubles be little ones.

Bennie Moten, that truly marvelous jazz master and his rhythm hounds will appear at the Walker Casino Monday night, September 14. You're warned that this will be your one and only chance to hear this famous band this year. So, get your tickets and come early.

Well, who's going to win that spanking brand new Ford Roadster at the Walker? The drawing will be absolutely on the level. So will you if you win. But its easy, Ruth Pryor says all you need is the winning coupon.

When school opened this week, Juanita Sweet was sadly absent. No reason could be found, unless it is that she's decided to "teach."

Somebody you know got married the other day. Trying to keep it a secret. They would. Just as soon as I find it out I tell you, if you promise to keep it. So long—

Now come on George Abrams, tell us what kind of a time you've had this summer.

Winifred B. has returned. That now "hoss" had better hurry if he wants to get into the race. Oh! What will Charlie say. Laude Williams will smile at this. But remember, my dear, laughing is catching.

DR. R. B. HUDSON SUCCUMBS TO LONG SPELL OF SICKNESS

WAS SECRETARY NATIONAL BAPTIST CONVENTION, INCORPORATED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS — CANCER AILMENT IS GIVEN AS CAUSE OF DEATH.

SELMA, Ala., Sept. 11. (By A. P.)—Prof. Richard B. Hudson, secretary of the National Baptist Convention, Inc., for twenty-five years, passed away here at the age of 65. The immediate cause of death was a cancer ailment from which he had been suffering for sometime.

The death of Prof. Hudson immediately excited Baptist circles throughout the country. He was well and favorably known by all Baptist groups. He was seldom the center of any controversy and remained secure in his position as secretary of the incorporated Baptists.

Prof. Hudson was born in Uniontown, Alabama, February 7, 1866. He was a graduate of the class of 1890 at Selma University and had received several degrees from that institution. He was married twice, the first time to Lula Richardson in 1890. He married Irene M. Thompson in 1900. There were two children from that union, Mrs. W. H. Whitted and Mrs. W. I. Whitted held many positions.

Prof. Hudson held many positions. He was principal of the Clark school in this city from 1889 to 1897. In 1897, he was made secretary of the state Baptist convention, a position he held until the time of his death. He was elected secretary of the National Baptist Convention in 1906. He was trustee and secretary of the board of Selma university and a trustee of the National Baptist training school in Washington. For many years he was principal of the high school and held various offices in state educational and farm associations. He was also president of the Selma branch of the National Negro Business League.

He was served free dinner.

Cubans To Play In Southwestern Iowa Ball Tourney

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Sept. 9. (Special) Syd Ploeff's Cuban House of Davids earned the right to enter the Finals Labor day in the Southwestern Iowa baseball tournament by defeating the Sioux Falls (S. D.) Canaries 13 to 2 here Saturday, the latter having eliminated Glickerson's Union Giants earlier in the week. By virtue of their victory, the bewhiskered Cubans must win only one more game to receive the major cash award of $6,000.00 in prizes.

Continuing their sport through the midwest, the Cubans rode rough shod over all opposition, except the Sioux Falls Canaries, to defeat the Murphy Dids of Osage; Schuyler, White House of Davids of Benton Harbor; Corwith; Linn; Eagle Grove and Lincoln Western League Stars. The Canaries, who have been a "hinx" to the Cubans of late, and who feature "Swede" Reisinger, former White Sox star in their line-up, managed toirk out a 11 to 9 victory over the Islanders.

NATIONAL GOLF CHAMP TO APPEAR HERE SUNDAY

E. MARSHALL RETAINS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

1932 Tourney To Be Held In Indianapolis.

(BULLETIN) T. Edison Marshall, New Orleans, national open golf champion, Robert Ball, Chicago; Porter Washington of Stowe, Mass., former open champion and John Roux, New Orleans who finished third in this year's open tourney, will be seen in an exhibition at Douglass park Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Arrangements were made by S. E. Ferguson, secretary of U. S. Golf association.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 9.—(By Ho-race G. McDougal For The Associated Negro Press)—Playing a steady consistent game, Edison Marshall of New Orleans, national pro golf champion, retained his title in the Sixth Annual Tournament of the National Gopher's Association held here Sept. 5-7, winning by a score of 307 in the 72 hole final match and receiving first prize of $150.00.

James McCoy of St. Nicholas Golf Club, New York, beat Lawrence Frierson of the Pioneer Club, Chicago, one up in 19 holes for the amateur championship. Miss Marie Thompson national champion for 1930, also a member of the Pioneer Club led the feminine contingent again by scoring 172 strokes in the 27 hole medal play competition. Miss Lucy Williams of Douglass Park Course, Indianapolis, was second with 178. Miss Elizabeth Groves of the New Amsterdam Club of New York was third with 180.

Robert Ball of the Pioneer Club of Chicago and former National Champion was second with 313 in the professional contest this year receiving $100. John Roux of New Orleans was third with 21 strokes winning $75. Elmer Stout of Newark, N. J., shot 322 to win $50. G. J. Clisby of Pasadena, Calif., public links champion of Los Angeles, competing as an amateur finished in the open with 325 taking place. Clisby came east intending to play in both the open and amateur but when he discovered that Roddy of Iowa, last year's Amateur winner had defaulted by not appearing, he entered the open but played as an amateur. H. Moore of Los Angeles tied with James McCoy for Low Medal. On the play off McCoy won 81-82.

The matches were played at Sunset Hills, the beautiful $100,000 golf

Talladega Eleven Holds First Walkout

TALLADEGA, Ala., Sept. 9.—The Crimson Tornado of Talladega College held its first workout of the season on Silsby field, Thursday, September 10.

The Tornado chief, Coach Kitchen, and his assistants will immediately begin whipping the teams into first class shape for the Tuskegee-Talladega game at Legion Field in Birmingham, October 16. The new athletic policy at Talladega calls for only six games this season. The schedule has been made light because, in the process of building up a new team, the Athletic Directorate feels that the men should not be overtaxed. Every effort will be put forth by the Tornado coaches to put a winning team on the field, however.

Another important development this year at Talladega, brought about by Trustee action, is the elimination of loose athletic competition. Athletics at Talladega will no longer be classed as "extra-curricular," but will be placed in the department of physical education, and made a part of the regular school program.

The Morehouse-Talladega game to be played at Talladega on November 14 will be the homecoming game for the Crimson Tornado. Talladega alumni and Tornado fans are expected on the "Dega" campus in large numbers to witness this game. While making no definite promises, the T. C. coaches are confident of a well developed team this season.

course operated for colored people a few miles from Chicago, and were followed by an enthusiastic gallery. It is estimated that 3,000 people saw the games during the three days of play. Hundreds of motor cars, scores of attractive girls and women and the presence of many of Chicago's best known citizens made the affair a social as well as an athletic event.

Eighty three contestants took a part in the tourney, there being 48 amateurs, 23 professionals and 12 women. They came from many states, Wisconsin, Louisiana, California, Texas, Tennessee, New York, Massachusetts, Washington, D. C., New Jersey, North Carolina, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri and Michigan being represented.

Marshall retained his championship by defeating Ball and Stout in the final day's play, a remarkable score in view of the hard wind which prevailed over the difficult course. Marshall drew away with two scores in front of Stout and held a lead of 8 strokes in front of Ball on the morning of the final day. Scores at the beginning of the final play were Marshall 153, Stout 155 and Ball 161. At the end of 54 holes Ball had recovered 3 strokes from Marshall and passed Stout by two strokes. The last nine holes were bitterly contested. Stout cracking badly to finish 15 strokes behind the leader. Ball reached a point two strokes behind the champion only to fall back to four when Marshall made a wonderful two on the 69th hole.

Finishing steadily and extending his lead to 6 strokes, McCoy in the amateur matches overcame an early lead of 4 up by Frierson, ending 1 up and 1 to play, winning the last and extra hole. Miss Thompson played a steady and consistent game to keep her crown as peer of the women.

The money prizes for the professionals and the cups for the amateurs were awarded by N. K. McGill of the Chicago Defender. Prizes were heaped upon the Pioneer Golf Club, its president Walter Speedy, its secretary Primrose Funches and its tournament committee, Horace McDougal, Dr. Ernest Ricks, Lawrence Frierson, Robert Ball, Lincoln Tondie and Leon Motts for the excellent manner in which the club served as host to the tournament. The co-operation of the Sun Set Hills Country Club and operating syndicate were particularly appreciated.

The United Gopher's Association in their annual meeting elected the following officers, Dr. E. J. Ricks, Chicago, president; L. E. Kennerly, New York, vice president; S. E. Ferguson, Indianapolis, secretary, and Elmer Brent of New York, treasurer.

The 1931 U. S. Tourney will be held in Indianapolis.

A. B. C.'S PLAY MONARCHS EVEN 4-GAME SERIES

Split Double Bill Sunday And Monday With Kaw City Nine.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—(Special)—The Kansas City Monarchs, after bowing to the masterful pitching of Brown in the first game of Sunday's double-header obtained an even break with the Indianapolis A. B. C.'s by winning the nightcap 9 to 0. Brown, one of the best pitchers to conquer the Monarchs at Muehlebach Field, led the Rogan men down with seven hits and the A. B. C.'s won, 4 to 1. Three thousand attended the double attraction.

Two triples and a single accounted for two of the A. B. C.'s runs in the fifth of the opener, while a walk, a double, and a single completed their run-making in the eighth. Joseph's center field double after Young got a life on Henderson's error, accounted for the Monarch tally.

The Monarchs put on an 8-run rally in the second inning of the night cap to clinch victory a combination of three walks, an error and five hits manufacturing the scores.

A sensational running catch by Donaldson of Thomas's bid for a triple on the right field embankment in the third inning of the second game was easily the fielding feature of the day. Chet Brewer, making his 1931 debut at Muehlebach Field, allowed only three hits.

The Monarch will start on a trip through Kansas. They will play in Manhattan, the Topeka Western League club in Topeka Wednesday night and Emporia Thursday, returning to Kansas City for a 3-game series with the Pittsburgh Homestead Grays, starting Saturday. A single game is carded Saturday and a double-header Sunday. Last season the Monarchs and Grays engaged in a 12-inning night battle at Muehlebach Field, the Grays winning, 1 to 0. In this game Pittsburgh made three hits off Brewer, who fanned nineteen, while Williams allowed only one and struck out twenty-seven. Yesterday's score:

Funeral services were held in chapel of the Peoples Burial company with Rev. D. C. Lynch, officiating. Soloist was Hayes Wilson. Mrs. Richards is survived by her husband, Wm. Richards; her mother and a number of other relatives. Mrs. Sallie K. Bottoms, Mrs. Mary Mays, Mrs. Anna Mae and Mrs. Peters, Detroit, accompanied Mrs. Smith and Mr. Richards. Burial in New Crown.

Mixed Souts Please
The show went off like clock work and Promoter Taylor is to be congratulated on his initial triumph.

The first bouts were mixed and both colored boys, Lewis and Slaughter, won their bouts over white opponents. Belief is rife here that these bouts had much to do with the crowd surpassing all expectations with hundreds of women devotees present. Beyond all doubt, mixed bouts are popular in Indiana.

Taylor Gets Avation
Bud Taylor, the former Terre Haute blond terror, now fistic promoter, was introduced by Fred Bays, silver tongue announcer, and was given a tremendous ovation, one that warmed the cockles of his fighting heart.

Bud's been cheered to the echo by greater crowds, but never with more sincerity. Truly his the same old favorite. And the former world's banty champion even made good as a public speaker, when he thanked the fans for their co-operation.

Another big hit was registered when an announcement was made that Miguel Wolgarst, world's flyweight champion, would appear in the Shrine arena Friday, September 18, meeting Frisco Grande, champion of the Philippines. Both fighters were introduced and given the glad hand.

SLAUGHTER TAKE FAST 10 ROUND GO FROM BROWN

Fans Cheer Bud And Enjoy His First Show.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 9th. (Special)—Kid Slaughter, middleweight champion of Indiana, slashed his way to a decisive win over Norman Brown, white battler of Chicago, in the final ten rounder of the bill.

The bout was fitting climax to Bud Taylor's debut as a fistic promoter at the Shrine temple last Friday night.

In the other end of the double windup, Frankie Hughes, Clinton Cloutier, knocked out Babe Amos, alleged crack of Syracuse, N. Y.

Pat Murphy, protégé of "Taylor," shaded Glen Niddy in the six-round semi-final which was replete with slugging.

Filipino Beaten
Jerry Wilson the fighting tonsorial artist of this city bested Al Grande, Filipino, in one of the four-round prelims.

Gene Lewis, Kokomo, took the measure of Elwin Metz of Westville, Ill., in the other preliminary bout. This bout was really jammed with action and the Kokomo lad won a following in this city by his aggressive tactics.

"Smiling George" Grammel was the third gent in the arena. John Hickey and Karl Wernecke officiated as judges. Lee Bays, member of state boxing commission was at ringside along with other members of the organization.

COLLEGE EDUCATION

College and school doors are opening and young people are wending their way back to the classrooms. Hundreds of boys and girls have begun their first year at institutions of higher learning. Some of them know why they are going to college, while others do not. Some go because it is the popular thing to do; others are impelled to do so by their parents who are anxious to see that their children receive an education. In this the parents are right of course and are entitled to commendation. We are far from being unmindful of the fact that a large number of these young people want to get a training that will better fit them for a life of service. That is a substantially essential ambition, and one that should receive the utmost encouragement. One often wonders whether a college education pays. Intensive investigations and surveys made show that the higher education afforded by the college does pay if taken seriously; that one who obtains a college training has a far greater earning capacity than one who has not such a training.

Not many years from now, the men and women who are now boys and girls in schools and colleges will be ministers of churches and heads of industries, and managers of business and numerous other activities. In sum, education is vitally necessary if young men and women are to successfully meet the keen competition involved in the years to come.

U. S. SOLDIERS REDUCTION

The War Department's policy of breaking up Negro combat units is the subject of much condemnatory comment. The National Association is up in arms against the latest order to this effect from the Adjutant General's office.

Involved in the order is what is described as a plan to move the 10th Cavalry, "less all armaments, animals and organizational equipment" from Fort Huachuca in Arizona to various stations in Kansas, Virginia and New York.

Rumor has it to the effect that a reduction in colored troops and the cessation of enlistments have been definitely decided upon by the powers that be. This, says an official statement, was made necessary in order to carry out the law in respect to the formation of a new air corps. We are told that the same shaving process is being applied to white army units. But it is altogether beyond our ability to understand why in the process it is necessary to divest the Negro army man of his military equipment. If it is not the intention of the War Department to replace the latter with as many pick axes and spades, then what is the big idea?

Members of our group, and particularly the colored press, are much alarmed over the move. The consensus of opinion is—and rightly so—that the underlying object is to reduce Negro soldiers to menial ranks.

In the meantime, Oscar DePriest, representative from Illinois, has announced his intention to wage a fight against the project on the floor of Congress. May his stand be as fearlessly opposed to the move as the War Department was deliberate and inconsiderate in introducing the plan.

The reduction idea is being regarded by Americans as especially unjust. This is so because no inducements have yet been held out to Negroes to join the air corps. And be it remembered that the reductions are being effected to render the air corps possible.

What we would like to know is whether it is the intention of the War Department to change the Negro regiments to non-combatant units. If this is not the purpose of the so-called rearrangement, then we are entitled to an explanation as to which regiments are to be preserved as combatant units.

According to press dispatches, unsolicited defense funds are being received by the National Association for the purpose of waging a fight against the move. This is a manifestation of a laudable spirit. There should be a thorough investigation instituted, now to determine what it is all about. The whole affair smacks of the rankest ingratitude. It is an insult to the intelligence of loyal United States soldiers.

The 9th and 10th Cavalry and 24th and 25th Infantry have always measured up fully to what was expected of them as dependable defenders of the flag. The treatment now being accorded them is unfair. The War Department will receive due notice of that fact.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

We note, with a degree of relief that action toward immediate alleviation of unemployment in Indiana has been taken. The work supplying program is calculated to take care of approximately five thousand men it is said.

Three hundred miles of highways will be taken into the system for maintenance according to a recent announcement of the commission. Surplus funds of approximately $750,000 will be used on some 3,000 miles of state highways now in the dotted line system it is reported.

It is understood that in all cases local labor will be recruited; prevailing wage scales maintained and as many men and teams as possible will be employed. The commission is responsible for the statement that the plan followed last fall, in emergency relief work will be in effect. The latter statement was supplemented with the very welcome announcement that the work will be started as soon as possible. This will be done to provide necessary relief before winter. No doubt a fair proportion of our people residing in the districts traversed by the roads in question will be benefited by the unemployment relief plan. At least we hope so. If the commission does not introduce any discriminatory methods in the matter of patronage and we see no reason why it should—there should be no cause for complaint. The program conducted in a spirit of fair play and necessary impartiality should be a boon to hundreds of unemployed citizens.

EFFECTIVE TEAM WORK

Governor Carlton, of Florida has instituted a searching investigation into the circumstances that led to the lynching of a colored man and his son in that state a few days ago.

A special communication from the scene of the double lynching contained the information that Carlton is doing all in his power to bring the lynchers to justice.

It was further stated that if efforts should fail to bring the mob leaders to justice it will not be due to any negligence on the part of the Governor.

Governor Carlton is credited with having asserted that the "cowardly group" that lynched the men, also lynched the state of Florida. For a southern official the remark is as significant as it is unusual. It remains to be seen to what extent the author of the statement will utilize his powerful influence to run down the "cowardly group" and mete demands.

out to them the punishment which society immediately after making the statement attributed to him, Florida's chief executive received the following telegram from the Interracial Commission:

"Let us commend heartily your vigorous statement relative to the Blountstown lynching and your expressed determination to do everything possible to apprehend and punish the culprits. This case of mob murder was peculiarly flagrant and indefensible. Florida owes it to herself and to the south to bring the perpetrators to justice as the only possible means of vindicating in some degree our laws and our civilization. If this organization can help, please command us."

Equally gratifying is the fact that scores of citizens of the state of Florida, have supplemented the latter commendation of Governor Carlton's act with theirs. Such powerful team work on the part of southerners, we think, is extraordinary and quite heartening to us. It is a mighty weapon placed in the hands of the chief of the commonwealth of Florida with which to do a real service. We shall watch with natural interest the extent to which Governor Carlton will manipulate the influential backing tendered him. Lynching in this country can be a thing of the past if only representative citizens North and South would see to it that a stop be put to the outrage.

Upon the better thinking of the citizenry devolves the duty of making the wanton murder of defenseless people a too expensive a pastime to be thought of. It can be done, and eventually must be done if civilization is to prevail.

However, developments in the Florida lynching indicate the South is undergoing a definite change of heart. It is a very good sign of the approach of the end of a barbarous system.

HOMELY PHILOSOPHY

DON'T HOARD YOUR LOVE

Love should never be hoarded but kept in circulation. Spend it freely for with spending, it multiplies as did the leaves and fishes. Spend your love upon the living who can be made happy and warm through its giving,—the dead cannot hear.

CRUISING AROUND

By LEE JAY MARTIN

The state wide show of agricultural Indiana is at this writing, in progress at Indiana's million dollar show grounds, where massive blinding of various types remain practically idle fifty weeks in every year. It is a farmer's holiday. They come together to see which one of them has raised the biggest hog, the tallest corn and the largest onion, which is of course a great pleasure to the farmer; but to most of us, it is the same old cow, same old hog, same old horse for which we drop in the same old slot, and become the same old goat.

Now, where is the economist that would advocate the cancelling of the State Fair and all attached thereto? Even though it would be a saving to the people, should there be such an economist, he would be a power of induction, which can for not anything or anybody with the ever take in everything and put out nothing.

The City Council did well in fixing the city's tax rate. They seem to have realized that the operation of the city would cost each tax payer just as much or more, if there were not any taxes at all,—that is under our present system.

Just for the sake of argument, suppose the founders of city started out with the idea of building a city with private owned public utilities and no taxation and imagine what some of their laws and regulations would be. Each property holder must have streets adjacent to his property, to a point half way across such streets with material as selected by the City Advisors, who serve without pay; each property owner must maintain his own fire; each householder must light that part of the street adjacent to the property he occupies; each householder shall have police powers, but it shall require two or more citizens to arrest legally an offending citizen; such offending citizens shall be taken before a city judge operating on the fee system; should the judge decide in the defendant's favor, the arresting citizens will pay the fee and vice versa; from such fees and fines the judge must build and maintain a jail; each family must educate their own children; and many other laws which would be just as absurd.

If the city transportation companies including tax, the water company, the telephone company, the light and power company, the gas company, the inter-city railroads, the coal and ice companies can operate, pay high salaries, good wages, dividends to investors and high taxes, saying nothing of the net profits, then the logical thing to do, if we must eliminate or reduce taxation, so there will be no complaint of high taxation, is for the city to own and operate the above or any other concerns dispensing the necessities of a modern city, using the profits thereof, to defray the expense of the city government. There are today, some communities with no taxation, operating on profits from public utilities they own.

The cussedness that is in human nature says the Indianapolis Star is as much to blame for unlawful outbreaks as are the "reds" to which most of the outbreaks are credited. It infers that law-abiding and ordinarily seditious Americans possess streaks of barbarism or else the Marion outbreak would not have occurred. No one knows this any better than the "reds," thus in such soil they plant their seed.

OUR GROUP, THE VICTIMS OF THIS STREAK OF BARBARISM.

SLAVERY IN LIBERIA

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER
A CAPITAL NEWS SERVICE FEATURE

The international commission had the greatest difficulty obtaining information about the slave traffic from the evasive Liberian officials. Most of the testimony was given by natives, many of whom are now living in fear of reprisals. They expected the League of Nations or some other outside power to protect them, or they would never have testified. Now they feel they have been callously left to their fate.

In December 1930, a detachment of the Frontier Force paid a visit to Nanna Kru and Sinoe, two coast towns above Cape Palmas. They fired upon and looted both communities and terrorized and assaulted men, women and children. The Government claims the soldiers went down there to collect unpaid taxes and were attacked by the citizenry, but the victims swear their taxes were already paid. The truth of the matter is that residents of the two towns gave damaging testimony against the Government in the slavery investigation and were being punished for it.

Just recently in Monrovia I met the son of a chief, a slender, sad faced lad who was loudly bemoaning his father's fate. Questioned, he explained that his father had been deported by the Government from his town to a distant section of the republic. He and several other chiefs had told the International Commission what they

IN ALMOST EVERY PHASE OF OUR EXISTENCE, FIND IT DIFFICULT TO STICK WITH SUCH A STREAK, AND AGAINST THOSE WHO BY THEIR WORDS AND ACTIONS ARE ATTEMPTING TO MAKE US BELIEVE THAT THEY POSSESS NO SUCH STREAK.

In the midst of the vast army of bias reporters of our daily press, Mr. L. F. Artist, capable member of the Y. M. C. A. staff points out the fair and impartial attitude of Miss Morehouse in her Art articles which appear in The Indianapolis Star. Many of us have read Miss Morehouse's articles and have said the same thing to ourselves, but we must also speak so others can hear. I would much rather hear of some good things said about me than have them told to me direct. Therein also is a lesson: "Don't hide a good person behind a grudge against a group."

Among the long list of personal congratulation to Mr. Norman Perry on the opening of his new baseball field, we find one of our group, just one, and it does not take a mathematical expert to figure the significance of the fact. Those who read the names know; those who did not, can easily determine who. If not, drop me a line. You need the information.

The state convention of the American Legion sent a Negro to their National convention, which is to meet in Detroit. A new and good leaf turned by this new and great body of which we have been somewhat skeptical. It will help in the fight against those who not only admit the weaker of our group in their convention, but in many instances give them the leading roll.

The Sugar Creek Creamery Company may be blameless for the action of the Broad Ripple park keepers in keeping Negroes from their picnic, but it appears to me that they, in the preliminary arrangement, gave little thought about their colored customers, otherwise the park would not have been considered. Taking their word at this time, we'll wait and see.

THE INDIANA'S GREATEST WEEKLY HAS A SPARKLING, CRISPY NEW COLUMNIST CALLING HIMSELF "SLIGHT O' HAND" AND WRITING UNDER THE HEAD OF "THIS AND THAT." WHEN YOU HAVE FINISHED READING "CRUISING AROUND," WHICH ENDEAVORS TO FURNISH YOU "FOOD FOR THOUGHT," AND YOU DESIRE SOME REFRESHMENTS, READ "THIS AND THAT."

We are also thankful for information carried by this paper as to who was responsible for the death of little Richard Noel. A hit and run driver whether he be black or white lord or slave, is a hit and run driver, and no one should attempt to conceal his identity.

Conventions are about over. Folk are returning home to prepare the next year's conventions. Conventions have their value. Many would today, be in total ignorance of their country, if it were not for conventions, which affords an excuse for many to travel from city to city and satte to state. Many a person has hoarded gold all their lives only to die without enjoying it. Save some, but 'tis folly to try and save it all.

SEPTEMBER IS SLIPPING AWAY. SOON, THE CHILLY WINDS OF OCTOBER WILL BE DASHING AROUND THE CORNER; BUT WHAT CARE YOU, IF YOUR COAL BIN IS FILLED WITH O. MARTIN'S QUALITY COAL. TWO WARM FRIENDS, MR. MARTIN AND HIS COAL.

dences but who do not seem to be members of the family. Look beneath most of the ramshackle Liberian houses and even some of the "mansions" and wonder who lives in the close, windowless sheds that seem fit only for animal habitation.

Are Serfs At Best

Upon investigation it will be found, as I found, that these servitors, young and old, male and female, are certainly slaves or at best serfs. Most of them one sees receive no wages, only a comic collection of cast-off clothing and their food, which is none too plentiful. The little children in many cases are either the offspring of slave concubines, are pawns or youngsters who were handed over to Liberian families by trusting natives for the purpose of being educated, "learning book." Generally, these latter, instead of receiving some schooling, are made the servants of their guardians' children and put to work around the house. They usually receive no reward, monetary or otherwise, for their years of service. Like the rest of the servants, they live in the sheds, under the houses or in some corner not in use.

The other retainers may have come into the service of their black masters in numerous ways. Perhaps they were in trouble of some kind and their masters got them off, claiming their services thereafter, or they were pawned to their masters by debtors, or they themselves started paying off a money debt to their masters with their services and can never seem to finish paying. The point is that they are all unpaid. Most of them have no homes, are semi-civilized, detribalized and perhaps their relation with their masters might be termed a feudal one. They are supposed to be free and yet actually they are slaves.

Native Concubines

As for the sometimes young and comely females one sees around many of the Liberian houses, it would not be correct to say that they do have their own spin. They are rather light ones. The real duty of these women is to act as supplementary wives to their masters. In brief, they are concubines. Mostly they are native women, either semi-civilized or just from the hinterland. Sometimes they have been bought, often they are pawns in payment of a debt and sometimes they have just grown up in the household. If there is any objection to them on the part of the Liberian wives, flourishing not only in the "meat there is no audible complaint. It is just an old Liberian custom tropicopolis," but in all of the counties and towns.

Notable men of the country have these slave-wives and are esteemed no less highly for it. The President has had one of these concubines for years and so have many of the highest government officials. If the customs are considered immoral by the nearby orthodox Liberian churchgoers (which means almost everybody) there has been no pronouncement against it from the pulpits of the land. Indeed, numbers of the clergy could not well denounce others for what they themselves are practicing. When former President C. D. B. King went to France and was met at the pier by an official welcoming committee he was considerably embarrassed because the officer in charge found conveyance for every member of his party except his concubine whom he had thoughtfully brought along. She was left standing on the wharf.

Some Go "Cave Man"

Sometimes rough and ready officials adopt cruder methods of getting slave-wives than the elite in Monrovia. Especially is this true back in the hinterland where the natives are cowed and helpless and the outer world cannot know what is going on. Despite native customs, tabus, and so forth, a Liberian official will sometimes see a pretty young girl and just simply take her. Former District Commissioner Davis Carter accused as the worst of the interior officials and now sitting in jail in Monrovia awaiting trial for murder and several other offenses, made, it is charged, a specialty of collecting native women and sometimes had scores in his entourage. In at least one case, it is alleged, he seized a native man's wife, carried her off, installed her in his harem, later quarreled with her, beat her unmercifully and threw her out reeking with disease onto the public road to die. Former Director of Public Works John L. Morris had perhaps the largest collection of these slave-wives in Liberia and still has a considerable number of them.

The little slave children the Monroviens have running around their houses and carrying their children's school books, do not by any means live an entirely care-free and happy existence. The Americo-Liberians do not believe in sparing the rod and spoiling the child. They are hard taskmasters and if the little pawn does not do his or her chores then a whipping inevitably follows.

Next week Mr. Schuyler describes his visit into the interior of the great African Republic into the Vais country where "pawing" goes on undisturbed. Don't fail to read his brilliant description of the Liberian hinterland.

The Negro's Political Future

By KELLY MILLER

The September Crisis carries a symposium on "The Future of the Negro in politics." The participants are Senators, Capper, Fess, Bulkeley, Norris and Borah. Senator Pat Harris, a deep Southern Democrat, expressed his willingness to participate, but was precluded by reason of previous engagements. Two of the participants are stand pat Republicans, two are Progressive Republicans, and one is a northern Democrat. Senator Capper shows the deepest concern and sympathy but avers his utter helplessness to offer valuable advice. He does, however, release the Negro from his traditional bonds to the G. O. P. when he advises him not to vote in racial solidarity, but to "vote in a way that will best promote his own interest, political, socially and economically." Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican National Committee shows least interest of all of the participants and is least interesting. He tepidly advises the Negro to uphold the basic principles of government, and to steer clear of the ranks of the rest less and discontent. By far the most positive and constructive suggestion comes from Senator-elect Bulkeley, Democrat from Ohio, who urges the Negro to forget the things that are and to vote for the men and measures which promise most for the present and future. He does not fail to stress the effect of the revolt against Judge Parker, as indicative of the wise use of the ballot. The two progressives, Norris and Borah, confine themselves to generalities without vouchsafing any specific suggestion or which practical action can be based. One regrets that Senator Pat Harrison's contribution is wanting, both for the sake of contrast and comparison. It is however a safe bet that his suggestion would scarcely have been lukewarm or colorless.

On the whole, the symposium gives us a cross section of public opinion and feeling on the political status of the Negro. It is one of utter indifference, passive regret or impotent sympathy. There is nowhere any robust or lively interest in the subject; no declaration of intention or purpose. The Negro cause finds no advocacy in any quarters. He is left to shift for himself, making such affiliations and temporary alliances as he thinks will serve his interest, changing the political manners living as they rise.

In the musty files of the North American Review one finds a symposium of leading politicians on the same subject. James G. Blaine speaks out in words of unmistakable championship of the full measure of the Negro's rights. Where are such champions now? Alas, they have gone with Sumner and Stevens and Roscoe Conkling. This should bring the Negro leaders to their senses. One is amazed at the Negro political bosses who still aver never dying loyalty to the political party notwithstanding its present day apostasy. These black Bourbons have neither learned nor forgotten any thing political since the Golden Age of Republican grandeur. They have only two points on which they harrange the race in every political campaign—the ancient benefaction of the Republican party and the ill deserts of the Democratic adversary. They do not seem to understand that these things constitute a closed book, sealed with the seven seals. The symposium of these great Republican leaders of present day thought and policy ought at least

Our Readers Say

SADLY DISAPPOINTED

T the Editor of The Indianapolis Recorder

My father has been for a number of years a regular subscriber to The Indianapolis Recorder. It was with a great deal of interest that I looked over your comment on the recent atrocious crime perpetrated in this community by one Negro and two white men. I say I looked with a great deal of interest for your comment because yours would be from the Negro's viewpoint and I had grown so weary in the past two weeks of reading the various white local and Detroit papers' comments. But I fear I might even sooner grow weary of reading the type of article that I found in your column in the last issue of the paper. Frankly, I was sadly disappointed. Certainly the crime was an incident which Negro leaders should not fail to pass some timely comment on, for it is a well known proverb in these United States among American Negroes that when one of our number commits a heinous crime, 12,000,000 others must pay and pay. But are you, Mr. Editor, really sincere, when you say that "at the bottom of the crime wave is mother prohibition and her sucking puppies?" My memory does not allow me to recall "the good old days" when a saloon could be found in almost every block and one could swim in good (?) liquor if he so desired. But the old folks tell me that even then there were holdups, rapes, and murders! May I ask you, Mr. Editor, can the eighteenth amendment which became a part of the Federal Constitution in 1919, explain the failure for the past fifty years of the 14th and 15th amendments of the constitution to be enforced? Then, too, because the eighteenth amendment is not enforced 100 per cent in its infancy, is that a legitimate reason that it should be erased from the statute restrain their ardor as spell binders in the approaching campaign.

There are two million potential Negro voters in states of uncontested franchise. This vote should be persuaded to go for men, measures and movements best calculated to advance the racial welfare. The Republicans may, indeed, make the most persuasive plea, if so they will doubtless and ought to secure the majority of the black vote. But amazement is aroused when these ardent partisan elders rush over each other in volunteering this vote in lump to the G. O. P. in advance, before any gesture has been made to uswards. If there be any greater source of amazement, it is how such a proffer should be made, uninvited, to the Democratic party. President Taft, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover have tried their best to convince the Negro that he represents a race without a party. Now comes Capper, Fess, Norris and Borah negatively persuading him to the same conclusion. If he fails to understand the self-evident truth, he will be looked upon as a hopeless partisan moron without sufficient brain power to understand his own political situation. He will thus not only lose his own political self respect, but that of the very party whose fortune he follows with dog-like docility. The G. O. P., will be justified in looking upon the Negro voter as the master upon his hounds.

"He can whistle them off as a master his pack."

For he knows when he wants them he can whistle them back."

In the mean time let us thank the editor of the Crisis, the astute symposiast, for so plainly developing the situation, that a wayfarer Negro man, though he be a hide bound Negro partisan, need not err therein.

books of the land anymore than because after sixty years of trial the 14th and 15th amendments should be erased? Intelligent Negroes would not stop to ponder on the question relative to these earlier amendments for one moment. They would reply as one body, "No, enforce them as they are." Also, intelligent persons should not hesitate to reply to the 18th amendment in the same firm, courageous manner.

Perhaps you will say, Mr. Editor, "But it cannot be enforced." I beg to disagree with you, and to contend that it can even if it interferes with one's sacred (?) "individual rights."

There are several outstanding reasons, I believe, why the prohibition amendment is not enforced. There is a growing tendency on the part of American citizens and youth to disrespect all law whether it be that relative to parking, drinking, speed limits, holdups, or what not. Nor can the prohibition amendment satisfactorily explain this laxity. The same attitude is seen in the home toward the "laws" of the parents, in the religious field toward the laws of God. It is an unfortunate accompaniment of the present day complex society. An educated public mind with high ideals is the only sane remedy for all kinds of lawlessness. The church, and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union are worthy examples of sincere effort in the interests of prohibition before the amendment became effective. But since the days of prohibition, the "drys" have become comparatively quiet, and the "wets" have continuously let out a loud noise. But those respectful citizens, those altruistic persons who see the evils of drinking and who believe in encouraging the making and maintenance of all laws which regardless of their own selfish interests will contribute the greatest happiness to the greatest number—this group of society, which is large has become passive. Whether it be the prohibition amendment or the law relative to the more prosperous members of society paying an income tax, leaders of the church, of Boy and Girl Scouts, of women's clubs, of schools, of the home, and of the press must never cease to impress upon their followers the value, the inward satisfaction of striving to do the finer thing, even though it is not popular, even though it is not seem at first glimpse feasible. If this were conscientiously done by a large proportion of the leaders for a period, the public would cease to support or tolerate an occasional minister who from the pulpit made drinking a joke, an occasional editor who harangued about the good old days of saloons, an occasional policeman who accepted bribes in order that his pocketbook together with the bootleg business and lawlessness might flourish. I believe this ideal can be attained and will be attained by an enlightened public opinion in the not far distant future.

Leg O' Mutton Sleeve New Creation To Be Worn

SLEEVES TO CHANGE STYLE
AGAIN FOR FALL

The designers in Paris are varying styles in every phase of woman's dress. Two well known designers, Redfern and Patou interpreting are the styles of long ago. The Leg O' mutton sleeve to be worn beginning in the fall styles was interpreted by Redfern. It creates the impression of a somewhat full sleeve at the shoulder, having been hung up on the clothes-line by two clothespins right at the tip where it joins the shoulder so that when it is taken the two little peaks still remain where it was pinned to the line.

Nor is this bad effect. It gives a square line to the shoulder which is approved by Patou, who creates the effect of broadening the shoulders instead of attacking the sleeves.

Redfern introduce a new blue called "Bleu de Paris," which is one of those practically impossible to describe because it is between a royal blue and electric shade, neither sapphire, nor yet a turquoise—it is simply "Bleu de Paris" and that is all one can say about it.

Skirts Slightly Higher
Skirts lengths will be slightly higher than in the past for street and daytime wear, and only ankle length for the majority of evening gowns, a few grazing the floor and one or two trains, but only for extremely formal moments.

Few ruffles, or any other tendencies pointing to the past appear in the Redfern collection, and nothing ever hides, or detracts the attention from the slimmest of the silhouette. Sequin bands in black down the sides of a white evening gown, resembling the satin stripe down the trousers of a man's tuxedo, was commented upon freely.

For daytime wear, green will be the prevailing color, from the darkest bottle green to bright emerald. Also two greens in the same model will be used. Black also as chic as always, is combined with green and other colors very smartly.

Matt Surface Featured
Materials are jersey, plain and figured, and woollens with a jersey weave—all with a matt surface—less mixture tweed. For afternoon, the new matt surface velvet and small patterned velvet brocade and crepe marocain is used extensively.

For evening, vivid colors in the supple matt surface velvet, and, of course, white and black, are the preferences.

Jewelry Matches Hat Trimming
Another added attraction to the newest jewelry to be worn in the new styles is the wearing of jewelry to match the trimming on the new hats. For instance, if the hat is brown and has a red feather on it, the jewelry to be worn with it would be large red beads about as large as an ordinary size marble.

Another method of carrying us back to the old styles back in history.

Box Coats Vogue For Fall
Some of the French designers are showing some lovely new boxcoats of fur with tailored collars and revers, big pockets and wide woolly scarves in bright colors. They'll be extremely smart at the big football games this autumn.

Other coats of diagonal wool or tulle are fitted slightly at the waistline, and flaring below, having curved and crossed scarves of fur or velvet.

Mrs. Humphrey Entertains
Mrs. Annie Mae Humphrey, 611 North California street entertained friends with a house party Monday night. The house was charmingly decorated with many cut flowers. Prizes at whist were won by Mr. and Mrs. Carey McMillan. The booby going to John Jenkins. Dancing was enjoyed until the wee hours, while a delicious luncheon proved highly pleasing. Mrs. Humphrey wore a beautiful black creation marvelous for the exquisiteness of its design and trimming.

Indianapolis Colored Girls Are Among Best Dressed

Thousands of out-of-town folks thronged Indianapolis highways the current week in attendance at the annual state fair, it was not difficult to pick out those colored women and young misses whose bearing, dress and general appearance reflected refined taste combined with ability to pick the articles of wear best suited to their personality. In almost every case these thoughtful women were found to live in Indianapolis.

One of the big differences between living in a small town on the one hand and a city of the size of Indianapolis on the other, is the opportunity the latter affords for choosing wearing apparel in an up-to-date shop at reasonable prices.

Of all such shops in this city none offers such quality goods at so low prices as KLINE'S, located at 107 N. Illinois St., opposite Traction Terminal Station. Mr. Ross the store manager has only the highest praise for his colored customers, he said: "I am not at all surprised that it should be said that Indianapolis colored girls are well dressed. Our colored customers are among our best. They are easy to wait on; know how to pick what suits them best; are courteous; and generally make their payments promptly. All of our clerks delight in serving them. And every one is finding out that you can get quality women's wearing apparel that costs more elsewhere for less at KLINE'S."

National Officers Of A. U. K. In City Enroute To Ohio
Ernest Patillo, National Grand Master of A. U. K. and D. of A., of St. Louis, Mo., passed through the city Thursday, enroute to Ohio and other states on his vacation with his wife, Mrs. Clyde Patillo. Mrs. Ozella Porterfield, National Secretary-treasurer of A. U. K. and D. of A., and Sir Knight H. A. Ferguson, they attended the Officers' Council meeting and all business was suspended. All made inspiring talks. Mrs. Patillo is a wonderful soloist. Mrs. Elluna B. Davis, State Grand Queen who entertained the Council, served a lovely luncheon.

Miss Stanley Weds
NEWARK, O., Sept. 9.—The wedding of Miss Delores Stanley of Newark, Ohio to Mr. Lawrence Williams of Battletree, Mich., an event for which Newark society circle have been entertaining and preparing all summer was solemnized Wednesday, September 9, at 1:30 p. m., at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stanley 64 Hoover street.

The ceremony was read by Rev. Maxwell of Xenia, Ohio, a friend of the family, before an improvised altar of ferns, palms, and gladiolus in the living room of the Stanley residence. Two seven branch candleabras adorned the altar, and two beautiful Japanese tapestry designs, hand-painted by the bride, decorated the walls. The house was decorated throughout with a profusion of garden flowers.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Gaylord Alexander of Middletown, Ohio sang "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning." She was accompanied by Miss Anna Reigger of the Reigger Music School.

As the chords of Lohengrin's wedding march were played the wedding procession began led by the usher, Willard Hoaglin. The groom and the best man, Laverne Williams, brother of the groom, followed. Miss Geneva Barnett of Lynchburg, Va., serving as bridesmaid then started down the stairway, which was heavily banked with palms and gladiolus. Her gown of pink satin crepe, trimmed with tulle and made on princess lines reached the floor. Wearing a ribbon of pink tulle on her hair, white satin slippers and long white silk gloves, she carried a bouquet of sunburst roses.

Miss Glacys Harris of Circleville, as maid of honor followed next. She was beautiful in her gown of orchid organdie made on a square neckline with small puff sleeves, fashioned in off-shoulder style. The extremely full skirt which was ankle length had one wide flounce and was trimmed with a violet chiffon ribbon sash which finished with a graceful bow at the left. She also wore long white gloves and white slippers, and orchid tulle on her hair. She carried an arm bouquet of deep pink roses and orchid snapdragons.

The little flower girl, Margaret Phillips was dressed daintily in a floor length blue-satin gown, and she strew rose petals to the altar from her basket of Johanna Hill roses.

The bride walked to the altar on the arm of her father. She was charming and beautiful in a floor length model of white satin with a veil of unbroidered and tulle arranged in cap shape and the length of the veil falling to the floor in scallops. She wore white satin slippers and long white silk gloves and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and baby-breath. Her only jewelry was a rhinestone necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white lace handkerchief and an ivory lace fan.

Mrs. Stanley, mother of the bride was gowned in orchid and silver lace and wore a corsage of sweet peas and roses.

GOVERNMENT ASSISTS PARENTS TO BRING UP THEIR CHILDREN

As the years roll on, the bringing up of children becomes more and more complicated and the problem is more perplexing than ever before. However, parents do not have to be alone in the matter now as Uncle Sam is helping with the job.

Through the doctors of the Children's Bureau and its advisory committee of experts in medicine, hygiene and psychology in Washington, Uncle Sam has worked out suggestions for handling most of the puzzling problems which children present in their development to the age of six.

Any parent who wishes to get any information concerning the child's care and training may ask the Children's Bureau. Also you may get a 150 page booklet for ten cents, which will prove very helpful. Dr. Frances C. Rothert in charge of answering all the questions and the following are a few of the more difficult problems and the way to solve them as she gives them:

Making Children Eat

When a child dislikes a certain food, keep it off of the table for a week or so. Then serve it just as a matter of course and he probably will have forgotten he disliked it. If that doesn't work, serve him first with a small portion of the food he doesn't like, remove the whole meal without comment if he still refuses, serve nothing but water until the next meal hour and continue the process until hunger convinces him of the wisdom of eating as directed. Consistency, calmness and firmness should be the keynote of the parental attitude.

Sucking Thumb

So many parents have the problem of trying to break the habit of their youngster of sucking his thumb. Dr. Rothert says, "punishments for sucking the thumbs or other objects will only emphasize the habit." When a baby or small child first begins to suck his thumb or finger, the mother should first quietly remove it from the mouth and put a toy in his hand to divert attention. A wide, stiff cardboard cuff, preventing the elbow from bending, will often cure the habit.

Children two, or three, who take a bottle or other object to bed should have it taken away once and for all. They will cry, but if parents must not give in even if they have to sacrifice two or three nights' sleep. If a child of five or six still sucks his thumb or bites his nails, punishment won't help. He must be persuaded to want to abandon the habit.

A series of small rewards, such as gold stars pasted on a card for each day or night on which he hasn't sucked his thumb, followed by a more real reward for a whole week of gold stars may be helpful.

Disobedience

Teach your children to trust you and they will obey.

Hints To Hostess

Pickling
Last week we talked on the fundamental principles of pickling and how to have success with them. This week you will find these recipes very simple and easy, if you will be sure and go by the rules given last week.

Cucumber Sweet Pickles
7 pounds cucumbers.
1 ounce cinnamon
2 ounces cloves
1 tablespoon allspice
1 quart vinegar
3 pounds sugar.

Pare, quarter and seed large cucumbers. Wash thoroughly, then soak for four days in salt and water (2 tablespoons salt to one quart water), changing the brine every day. Put the spices in a bag. Boil the cucumbers with the vinegar, sugar and spice until the cucumbers are clear. It is best to watch carefully and remove each piece when it is clear. Pack in clean, hot jars and seal.

Cucumber Sour Pickles
100 cucumbers
Vinegar
1 ounce mustard seed
1 ounce cloves
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup sugar
2 red peppers.

Use the smallest cucumbers you can procure, making two and one-half inches the limit of length. Put the spices in thin muslin bags, using at least two bags. Place the cucumbers in a kettle with enough good vinegar of medium strength to cover them. Place the bags of spices in the vinegar, together with the salt and sugar, and the peppers cut in rings. Heat the vinegar as slowly as possible; when it is scalding hot but not boiling, the pickles are ready to set away. If this recipe is carefully followed, satisfactory results will be obtained. If the vinegar boils, the pickles will soften.

Pickled Pears
4 quarts pears
2 pounds white sugar
2 cups vinegar
One-half stick cinnamon
One-fourth ounce whole cloves.
Peel pears. Boil the sugar, the

If parents are absolutely consistent in treatment of children the child will know that when a command is given there is no questioning it.

Punishment may be necessary in certain things which must be required of every child. He must not run out on a road where cars are passing; he must not touch lamps or matches; he must not hurt his baby sister, and so on. It is better not to make punishable issues of less important matters. Never give commands that are not worth insisting on.

Habit Of Lying

The best way to teach children to be truthful is to set them a constant example of truthfulness. Children frequently punished may become untruthful because they are afraid.

Punishing Children

Punishment is at times necessary and then should be immediate and appropriate. There should be close connection between the act that a child should not repeat and the unpleasant sensation called punishment.

A child who is fighting with his playmates may well be punished by removing him from the group; a child who smashes a toy, by learning to take its place. Do not punish him by putting him in a dark closet. Slapping or spanking should be used rarely and never in anger. It is most appropriate when a child has done something, the repetition of which will endanger his life, such as running out into the street or playing with matches.

Punishment should never be prolonged nor delayed. Never tell a child you will punish him unless you intend to do so.

Reaction

For many children, punishment is one way of attracting attention. Some children enjoy the reputation for naughtiness and need to be ignored instead of punished. Make sure that your child isn't getting attention only when he is naughty and being ignored when he is good. A child will often be influenced more by a quiet word or two than by excited reproaches or scoldings.

Temper

The child with temper tantrums is another one trying to attract attention. Be sure he gets approving attention for doing desirable things and that family attention is evenly divided among the children. Management of such a child always requires patience, self-control and absolute firmness. Scolding is of little value and a slap or spank rarely so. Leave the child by himself until he is quiet, and then without comment, let him return to the family group. Be sure he does not get what he wants by having a tantrum and never let him know you are upset about it.

Graduates Are Entertained

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Sept. 9.—The Girls Work Committee of Wheatley Social Center gave its second annual party honoring grade and high school graduates, college boys and girls which presented an interesting picture for future culture standards.

An excellent program under the chairmanship of Mrs. Mattie Richards was enjoyed.

The high school graduates, Vivian Shaw, Theodore Blanks and Nathaniel Buggs have matriculated at Bishop college and Indiana university respectively. Visiting high school students included Louise Biggs of Knox, Victoria Hall and Mary Clayton of Brazil, and Louis N. Silance of Lafayette.

College boys and girls: Edith Robinson, graduate of Lynchburg Seminary, Delia and Ella B. Silance Purdue university, John Ridley and Clifton Pierson, Lincoln university Chester, Pa., and Jesse Babb, Indiana university.

Community songs and games enlivened the event and a tempting repast was served to over 150 guests.

The roster of names of the committee reads, Mrs. Benj. Lihurd, president; Mrs. Loretta Greene, vice pres., secy.; Mrs. Viola Jones, treasurer; Mrs. Eva Dickerson; Mmes. Corrie D. Shaw, Helen Young, Marjorie Wickliffe, Mattie R'chards, Virginia Smith, Emma Ellis, Lucy Wilson, Anna Warfield, Florence Lee, Mattie McDonald, Louise McCoy, Golda H. Jones, Ethel Bickerstaff, Carrie Wilson, Elora Gaanaway, Carrie Gaines, Misses Myrtle Hildley, Pearl Ramsaye; Girls Work Secretary, Miss Elma E. Alsop.

vinegar, the cloves, and the cinnamon for 30 minutes. Place a few of the whole pears at a time in the syrup, and cook them until they are tender. Pack them into thoroughly cleaned jars. Adjust the rubbers, and fill each jar to overflowing with the hot syrup. Adjust the covers and seal the jars immediately.

Call of the Blood

TENTH INSTALLMENT

Allowing herself time to change into her traveling costume before the supposed train time, Ruth withdrew from the party as it was breaking up. Leslie, waylaid by her on her way to her room, was enthusiastic over the success of their scheme. "Ruth! You were great!" he exclaimed as his eyes fastened upon her. "Nobody guessed. And didn't you have a good time?" he queried. "You seemed to."

"Yes, I did," she answered, "but we must not stand here talking about it. Someone may hear us," and she turned a listening ear to the distant sound of voices and laughter that grew louder as some departing guests made their way through the house downstairs.

"Don't bother about that. I'm in the mood now to care what they hear or may think. I'm wild about you. I'll tell you, I have tried to hold myself in check and now it is out. You know it. We can't go on like this. He was holding her shoulders firmly between his palms and looking down into her eyes with a pleading light in his own.

"Ruth! My Darling! What can we do? I want you. Marry me. You do love me, don't you? Enough to come with me?"

Ruth was at first amazed at the intensity of the feeling that he showed and then suddenly something within her responded to the deep sincerity of his emotion. Swaying slightly upon her feet, she was like a beautiful flower shaken by a gust of wind. She closed her eyes. Leslie almost roughly caught her to him.

She silently submitted to his kisses which he gave her eyes, temples, lips and throat, while her mind, detached from her body as it were, tried to piece together what this meant—she was in love, yes, deeply in love with a Negro. To marry him, meant giving up Mother, friends and former home and going into a new situation entirely. It was true, that from the afternoon's experience, these people lived and did things much as her own did, but how would even they look up to her—

Without a single doubt, she could not have hesitated if he had been a Greek or Jew from a similar high type environment, but a drop of Negro blood made all of the difference in the world to the eyes of white society and there were only two things that she could do—accept the law or defy it.

Weekly Sermonette

THE UPWARD GAZE
will lift up my eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help.
Psalm 121:1.

By DAVID CECIL LYNCH

Darkness and gloom lie upon the paths of men; he stumbles at difficulties, is ensnared by temptations and perplexed by trouble. Pain and affliction and sorrow often gather around the steps of his earthly pilgrimage. But God has given man the power to overcome all things evil if he will but keep his gaze upward.

Man is taught to look upward to his God—no longer to a God hid in imperishable mystery and infinitely remote from human sympathy, emerging only from the darkness to smite and crush humanity, but to a God, good, beneficent and merciful, loving the creatures He has made with an immeasurable and exhaustless love; who sends us pain and want and disaster only that we may serve to develop in us the virtues and excellencies that befit us to live with Him eternally.

There has never been a great poet, a great leader, a great statesman, a great achievement in any field where the soul was earth-bound; where it did not lift up its eyes to the hills from whence cometh its help. Tom Paine the man of great intellect who did so much for us during our great struggle for freedom, is almost forgotten today. Why? His eyes failed to lift themselves to God for inspiration and guidance. Why do we speak the name of Ingersoll, that genius with the silver tongue and the diamond pen, with lips half afraid? Because he denied the existence of God.

In these times of strain and stress, of economic stringency let us look up to God from whence cometh our help. Our help cometh from the Lord.

MAIDSON M. E. CONGREGATION HONORS PASTOR

Rev. F. H. Bunton Given Many Valuable Presents—Lovely Birthday Cake;—Concert A Great Success

MADISON, Ind., Sept. 11.—A large number of admiring friends and acquaintances attended the surprise birthday party given recently in honor of the Rev. F. H. Bunton, pastor of the Ebenezer M. E. church here. The affair, which was interdenominational in character, was led by Mrs. Clara Bolden, president of Aid No. 2.

Prized here by everyone, was the proud recipient of many presents and a lovely birthday cake decorated with candles.

The sacred concert given Sunday night at the church by the choir was a great success. The church was crowded to capacity and a wonderful program with great spiritual value was rendered.

The rostrum with its choir regaled in white was also decorated in white presenting a very appealing appearance.

Those appearing on the program were: the Rev. F. H. Bunton, Mrs. Louise Whitaker, Robert Smith, Mrs. Marie Grey, Roger Shelton, Robert Smith, chorus, Marietta Anderson, Mrs. Pearl Tandy and Mrs. F. H. Bunton.

PEOPLES BURIAL COMPANY HEAD BACK FROM TWO WEEKS' VACATION

MRS. HENRY E. DUNN REASSUMES EXECUTIVE MANAGEMENT OF THRIVING BUSINESS CONCERN—GRANTS WRITER INTERVIEW—PRAISES CO-OPERATION OF FAITHFUL CO-WORKERS—TO ENTER SCHOOL OF EMBLATING THIS FALL.

By GABRIEL STANLEY

Looking the part excellently well of one who has had a truly restful vacation, Mrs. Henry E. Dunn, president of the Peoples Burial company has returned from a two-weeks' visit to relatives and friends in her native city of Asheville, N. C., and points throughout the Southland.

Needless to say that immediately cutive head of one of the city's upon returning, the well known ex-leading funeral homes plunged into the work of advancing the interest of her business with renewed vigor.

Grants Interview

A visit to the modern headquarters of the company on North West street was greeted by its genial proprietor with one of those inviting smiles for which she is noted.

Shaw University Graduate

Mrs. Dunn, who came to Indianapolis as a bride in June 1923, is a product of Shaw university. She also studied at the Indiana university extension.

Broad, sympathetic, liberal and an engaging conversationalist, Mrs. Dunn by nature is saliently adapted to the business it devolved upon her to carry on since the death of her husband five years ago.

A staunch member of the Corinthian Baptist church, she is a popular leader in social circles here. Fraternally Mrs. Dunn is connected with the Sisters of Charity No. 5; Leah Chapter of the Eastern Star, Jewel Council, A. U. K. and D. of A. Royal Circles of the World, and various social and federated clubs.

Mrs. Dunn is also a member of the Board of Directors of the state Sisters of Charity to which organization she gave $100 recently as a memorial to her deceased husband.

The interviewer was ushered into the offices by a remarkably courteous and neatly attired personnel and conducted to a seat. The parlor is the very essence of artistic beauty in arrangement. While awaiting the arrival of the company's executive the writer was impressed with what he feels called upon to describe as the home-like atmosphere and unmistakable evidences of efficient business discipline which pervaded his temporary surroundings.

Launching forth into a recitation with the inner workings of the thriving concern as the subject, Mrs. Dunn was loud in her praise of what she described as the splendid co-operation she is receiving from her immediate business associates.

It is noteworthy that the co-workers to whom Mrs. Dunn had reference were all trained in the business by her deceased husband, Lieutenant Henry E. Dunn, founder and first manager of the Peoples Burial company with which they have been connected since its birth nearly eleven years ago.

Praises Associates

Vernon O. Ware, a product of Fisk University and a graduate of Askin College, was described during the interview by Mrs. Dunn as "our efficient funeral director, and one of the most professional and scientific embalmers in the middle west."

Edward Oates another Peoples Burial co-worker was said by his chief to be "one of the most indispensable cogs in the wheel of the organization."

Under the constant guidance of Lieutenant Dunn," said Mrs. Dunn, "Mr. Oates, who is assistant to Mr. Ware has developed into a competent and worthy associate."

Parkview Hotel Opens Dining Room

The new dining room of the Parkview hotel opened to the public this week. The management has spared no pains in making it a charming spot, an ideal place for dinner, party or dance.

Mr. Armstrong, versatile manager of the hotel announces the offering of a chicken dinner daily for 50 cents; menu of varied and appetizing dishes. One item is bound to prove a big favorite with the theatries.

A regular Chinese Chop Suey dinner will be served every evening for the benefit of those who enjoy this delectable dish in a cozy sitting. Popular prices will prevail. Reservations for dinner parties and dances by individuals, clubs, fraternal societies or like can be had by calling the hotel Riley 0377.

The Parkview, Indianapolis' leading hotel, has enjoyed a splendid track among out-of-town prominent visitors this season, according to the manager. The highest standard known to the hotel business has been maintained. The home-like ideal has been successfully infused in the general modern up-to-date atmosphere. Truly an ideal place for those of discriminating taste.

The addition of the dining room to the existing features of the Parkview service is expected to increase the interest of local citizens in this beautiful establishment.

my dear, the best thing for you to do is to break away from him.

He has wronged you too, because he should have told you he was married and then again, he as a married man should not have lured you to him as he did. Under the circumstance he has only in a way gone with you for convenience. Forget him if you can and if possible move away so you won't come in contact with him. Why men will play tricks of that type on a woman and take all of her time is beyond reasoning power.

Duncan Confession

of it, however.

"I got up early Tuesday, September 1, about 6:00 o'clock. My wife and daughter got up a little later and we all ate breakfast together.

"I left home after breakfast and went to the home of my wife's cousin, David Johnson, 905 South Meridian street. We drank one-half pint of mule and then left to see a doctor in the Hume-Mansure building. On the way back home we stopped by Gus Habich's sporting goods store. I wanted to get a spring for a gun. We got back home about noon. Johnson went home.

"I drank another half-pint of mule. Then I asked my wife to go for a walk. We had been arguing.

"We walked down Kansas street to the L. C. tracks. We then turned back across Raymond street and sat down under a tree near the east bank of White river.

"We started arguing again. 'Ett' (meaning his wife) asked me why I had asked her to come way out there to argue, that we could have stayed at home for that.

"After we had argued a while my wife got up real quick and struck me. We then started fighting. She ran after I struck her and I reached and got a hunting knife I had been carrying in my socks and remember hitting her with this knife once in the back while she ran. She turned and screamed and I stuck her again with the knife.

"I left her lying in the sand screaming and started home in a round about way.

"I met a white fellow and he gave me some more mule.

"I went home and went to bed.

"The next morning Lucile (the daughter) asked me where was mama?

I told her I had got her a job at Mrs. Dotch's. She went there to see and told her mother had not been there. I then went with Lucile to look for her mother. Perkins wanted to follow and after an argument I struck him. I did not want to leave Lucile with him. He followed for a while anyhow. I went to Johnson's home again and we looked for my wife. Of course we did not find her because I led them away from the place I left Ett.

"Wednesday night the police came to my house after me. I thought, but they took Perkins and the other man away. They did not stay in long and when they got out they came back home. A radio these men had brought to the house was taken away. It was about this radio that me and Ett had quarreled several times. We had quarreled about the radio out on the bank of White river where I killed her.

SOROSIS CLUB STATEMENT FALSE, AVERS MRS. PENNY

Mrs. Penny wishes to state that the article appearing in the Recorder August 29th is true and that every statement made in this article is true, and can be proved in every respect. She warns the Sorosis club that any article appearing in the future, that bears anything but the truth, she will take steps to have them prove it.

She did not pay the Club $75, or any cost of court, did not state to their attorney that she could only raise $75, and neither she or her attorney asked for a compromise. The Club's attorney consulted Mrs. Penny's attorney, Mr. Robert Smith, Circle Tower Building, concerning a compromise for $75. When consulted by her attorney, Mrs. Penny refused to compromise for $75 but said she would pay $40, to which their attorney later agreed. Mr. Smith informed Mr. Remy, that unless the Club accepted $70, as a full release, he would carry the case over to a September jury trial. Following is the release issued and signed by Mr. Remy the Club's attorney.

RELEASE

For and in consideration of the sum of $70.00 this day paid by Lula Penny to the Sorosis Club, said Sorosis Club and the individual members thereof do hereby release, discharge and hold fully satisfied any and all claims represented or referred to in the suit now pending in Municipal Court, Room 2, entitled Curt's, et al vs Lula Penny. It is agreed and understood as part of the consideration of this release that the said Lula Penny, will return intact and undamaged the original minute book of said club, and the original book containing the constitution and by-laws thereof, said return to be made not later than August 31, 1931.

(Signed) WM. H. REMY,
Attorney for Sorosis Club.
